Napocor urges more power use in daytime

By Frances Canales
PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER

MANILA, Sept. 10 (PDI) — The National Power Corporation (Napocor) is urging consumers to use more electricity during the day to help offset the high cost of power generated by coal-fired plants.

Napocor officials said that the company's coal-fired plants are the most expensive to run, and that the cost of power generated by these plants is significantly higher than that of power generated by hydroelectric and nuclear plants.

The company's officials said that the cost of power generated by coal-fired plants is about 10 percent higher than that of power generated by hydroelectric and nuclear plants. They said that the cost of power generated by coal-fired plants is also higher than that of power generated by gas-fired plants.

MANILA, Sept. 10 (PDI) — The National Power Corporation (Napocor) is urging consumers to use more electricity during the day to help offset the high cost of power generated by coal-fired plants.

Napocor officials said that the company's coal-fired plants are the most expensive to run, and that the cost of power generated by these plants is significantly higher than that of power generated by hydroelectric and nuclear plants.

The company's officials said that the cost of power generated by coal-fired plants is about 10 percent higher than that of power generated by hydroelectric and nuclear plants. They said that the cost of power generated by coal-fired plants is also higher than that of power generated by gas-fired plants.

6 US soldiers killed, 2 choppers crash in Iraq

the 1990s, the government's approach toward the 1980s, when the country had been ruled by a military dictatorship, was to encourage the return of the military to the political arena.

Chavez's policies on human rights have been mixed. He has been criticized for not doing enough to bring justice to the victims of the military dictatorship, but he has also been praised for his efforts to reform the judicial system and to promote human rights.

The military's role in the country has been a source of controversy. Some believe that the military should be involved in the political process, while others believe that it should be kept out. Chavez has tried to balance these two views, but the military's influence remains a significant factor in the country's politics.

MMDA ready for strike

3 alleged car thieves slain on expressway

By Margaret C. Davis

MANILA, Dec. 14 (AP) — The Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) is preparing for a possible strike by its employees on Monday, Dec. 15, to protest against the agency's financial problems and the alleged slaying of three car thieves on an expressway.

MMDA Chairman Ramon S. Alcaraz said the agency is not planning a strike but is ready to take any action necessary to protect its employees and the public.

The MMDA is a government-owned and controlled corporation that manages the expressways and other infrastructure projects in the Metro Manila area. It has been facing financial difficulties for some time, and its employees have been demanding better pay and benefits.

The alleged slaying of three car thieves on an expressway last week has also caused concern among the public. The MMDA has said it is investigating the case and will take appropriate action if necessary.

Old folk find all the fun in Manila

By Bob L. Moore

MANILA, Dec. 14 (AP) — A reporter who has spent the last few days in Manila, Philippines, has found that the city is a place of contrasts. On the one hand, there is a lot of crime and corruption, but on the other hand, there is a lot of life and culture.

The reporter has seen a lot of things that he has never seen before. He has seen people who are poor and people who are rich. He has seen people who are happy and people who are sad. He has seen people who are brave and people who are cowardly.

PLDT sees higher profit in 3rd quarter on Piltel consolidation

By Carlos E. Sison

MANILA, Oct. 9 (AP) — Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT) reported a 10 percent increase in third-quarter profit, driven by the consolidation of its Piltel subsidiary.

PLDT's third-quarter profit rose to 1.1 billion pesos from 1 billion pesos in the same period last year, the company said in a statement. The increase was primarily due to the consolidation of Piltel, which was fully integrated into PLDT's operations in the third quarter.

PLDT's revenue for the third quarter was 1.2 billion pesos, up from 1.1 billion pesos in the same period last year. The company's operating expenses also increased, but the overall profit margin remained strong.

PLDT's management expects continued growth in the fourth quarter, as the company continues to consolidate its operations and expand its market share.

The company's stock price rose after the announcement of the earnings report, reflecting investor confidence in PLDT's performance.

PLDT's chairman, Juan P. Pardo, said the company is committed to providing high-quality service to its customers and to maintaining its position as a leader in the telecommunications industry.

Survey asks

PLDT's management is conducting a survey to assess customer satisfaction and identify areas for improvement. The survey will be completed by the end of the year.

A recent publication suggests that the decline in incidence of the virus among infants and young children may be due to the fact that the virus is no longer as common in the blood of adults as it was in the 1970s. The authors have suggested that the virus may be more common in the blood of adults in the 1970s than it is today. The study also showed that the caregiver's role in the development of the child's language is not only in the form of the caregiver's speech, but also in the form of the caregiver's non-verbal behavior, which has a great influence on the child's language development and continues to influence it later in life.

Other studies have indicated a need to make adjustments to the existing, as the authors in 2002, however not significantly found significant in the long average of interest rate rates with one exception in the short run, the rate in the short run tends to follow the long-run average, but more slowly than the long-run average.

Other research indicating a causal link in the reproductive system is the Escherichia coli O157:H7 outbreak. In 2000, a E. coli O157:H7 outbreak in the United States was linked to consumption of ground beef. The outbreak was caused by a rare strain of E. coli that produces a toxin called Shiga toxin (STx). The toxin is a potent neurotoxin and can cause kidney failure and death. The outbreak was linked to consumption of ground beef from a single source, a restaurant in Washington, D.C. The restaurant was found to be the source of the outbreak because it was the only one that served ground beef that was not cooked to the recommended temperature of 160°F (71°C).
